Gaggle Enhances Archiving Solution for Google Apps™

Virtually Eliminating the Burden of FOIA and eDiscovery Requests

BLOOMINGTON, IL (May 11, 2011) - Gaggle, the leading provider of safe online communication and productivity tools, announced today that they have enhanced their archiving solution that enables them to archive Google Docs & Spreadsheets, Google Talk, and Google Calendars. Gaggle has offered email archiving for Google since 2007 and is delighted to be able to provide these additional services for K-12 clients. Gaggle's archiving solution for Google Apps will help school districts easily store, manage, and retrieve their data with just a few clicks of the mouse, virtually eliminating the burden of FOIA and eDiscovery requests. Providing school districts the ability to quickly locate the requested information and turn it over to the requestor will now make compliance a simple task.

"The ability to archive Docs & Spreadsheets as well as Chat and Calendars provides a new level of protection and compliance to school districts," said Jeff Patterson, Gaggle CEO. "Districts need to comply with both FOIA and eDiscovery requests and now Gaggle can help them meet these requirements."

"We are all very pleased to be able to offer this additional archiving functionality to our Google Apps clients," said Greg Richman, Regional Relationship Manager for Gaggle. "I am incredibly proud to be a part of a company that truly listens to customers and develops tools based on their input."
